Docket No. 2002-1 CARP DTRA 3

Collegiate Broadcasters Inc. (“CBI”), a nonprofit organization of about 100 members who are college radio, television and Internet broadcasters, gives notice of its intent to participate in the Copyright Arbitration Royalty Panel Proceedings to adjust royalty rates and terms under the statutory license for eligible nonsubscription services to make certain digital audio transmissions of sound recordings for the 2003-2004 period.

Congress has provided the Librarian and the arbitration panel great latitude in determining how costs of royalty adjustment proceedings are to be apportioned among the participants. The risk that costs will be apportioned among participants without regard for their size or financial resources, as they were in CARP DTRA 1 & 2, raises a bar to participation for those who cannot afford to pay the arbitrators. CBI asks that the Copyright Office consider the needs of small entities and particularly of nonprofit broadcasters affiliated with educational institutions in establishing procedures for this CARP and make some provision for such organizations to participate without incurring prohibitive costs, such as waiving costs for such organizations or allowing such organizations to participate in a limited manner, for limited, pre-defined costs, or other measures in accordance with the Regulatory Flexibility Act, in order to provide the panel with sufficient evidence on which to base its decisions.
